Guide to Information

Scottish Road Works Commissioner's Publication Scheme

Introduction

The Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 requires Scottish public authorities to produce and maintain a publication scheme. Authorities are under a legal obligation to:

- publish the classes of information that they make routinely available; and
- tell the public how to access the information and whether information is available free of charge or if a payment is due what charges will be applied.

The Scottish Road Works Commissioner has adopted the Model Publication Scheme produced by the Scottish Information Commissioner.

You can find information about the Model Publication Scheme on the Scottish Information Commissioner's website at:

Publication schemes | Scottish Information Commissioner.

The purpose of this Guide to Information is to:

- allow you to see what classes of information about the Scottish Road Works Commissioner and its work are available (and what is not), and in what format;
- explain how to find the information easily;
- provide contact details for enquiries and for help to access the information; and
- state what charges may be applied for the provision of paper copies of documents

Availability and formats

The information the Scottish Road Works Commissioner publishes under the Model Publication Scheme is available on its website. The Scottish Road Works Commissioner can offer alternative arrangements, on request, for those who are unable or unwilling to access the information from the website. For example, arrangements can be made for the information to be sent as a paper copy by post. There may, however, be a charge for this (see Section 5 below).

Exempt Information

The Scottish Road Works Commissioner holds information which falls within the classes of information detailed below. Information in any document that is exempt under Freedom of Information legislation (for example, if it is sensitive personal data), may be removed or blanked out (redacted) before publication. An explanation will be provided if any such action has been taken.

Copyright and Re-use

Where the Scottish Road Works Commissioner holds the copyright in any of its published information, the information may be copied or reproduced without formal permission, provided that:

- it is copied or reproduced accurately;
- it is not used in a misleading context; and
- the source of the material is identified.

The Scottish Road Works Commissioner will make it clear if it does not hold the copyright for any information it publishes.

Charges

This section outlines the circumstances in which the Scottish Road Works Commissioner might apply a charge for its publications.

There is no charge to view the information displayed on our website or at the Scottish Road Works Commissioner's office. Anyone wishing to view information at the Scottish Road Works Commissioner's office must make an advance appointment to do so.

The Scottish Road Works Commissioner may charge for the costs incurred in providing information, such as for postage and / or photocopying. The charge for the supply of information will be no more than the actual cost of producing and sending copies of the information. The Scottish Road Works Commissioner's office will always advise of the charge to be applied before the information is supplied.

The Commissioner does not currently publish any commercial publications. However should this change, this charging schedule would not apply (see Class 8 below). Any such items are offered for sale through retail outlets such as book shops, academic journal websites or museum shops and their price reflects the 'market value', which may include the associated production costs.
